FOOTBALL SQUAD HOLDS EARLY PRACTICE
Twenty-five Men Report for Early Season Work on Monday, September 11, Continuing Twice Daily

PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT

All But Four of Last Year’s Team Available for Good New Material

On Monday, September 11, the first day of practice, twenty-five candidates reported to the coaches. Each succeeding day since then has seen an additional candidate, and at the week’s end the squad was almost complete. Practice has been held twice daily thus far but the opening of classes is to give considerable time and practice will be held as usual in the afternoon.

The work up to date has been devoted almost entirely to the elementary tactics of the game, and no attempt at playing has been made. Practice has been carried on long enough to catch in the spring and to steady the new men, and it is hoped that next week’s practice will be expected to increase in their facility in handling the ball, combined with the material already gained in practice. The work will be lighter to-day and will be held in anticipation of the games to come.

The coaches have already divided the squad into two teams and have kept them playing against each other, and with the exception of Thursday practice has been held on the practice field only occasionally and then as quick as possible. It is expected that the missing time since his return to his own team will be made up by playing with the team.

COACH HART has been in attendance at most of the practices and is expected to do so to-morrow. He will thoroughly inspect the work of the field and in case there will be any lack in the work, he will see to it that the necessary work is done.

The prospects for the season look bright and the chances for a successful year are great,
We are glad to publish communications lest neither Class nor Club nor member of the class responsible for the sentiments expressed.

Tapes $4.00 per year if paid before Oct. 7th, $5 per year after Oct. 7th.

A Few Championships

As a matter of interest in this morning’s issue, the baseball team has brought back the championship, the swimming team has again captured the trophy for the indoor intercollegiate meet, and the tennis team comes back with the intercollegiate doubles championship in its credit. It has indeed been a profitable summer. Those who saw the deciding baseball game in Brooklyn do not need to be reminded of any of the details of that contest. Those who were so unfortunate as not to witness it have doubtless heard of the result. But it is a pleasure to us to record again the achievements of Captain White and his team. It was also a pleasure some time after the season closed to read the unprejudiced opinions of the sporting writers whom the college student too often considers beyond his reach. All placed Princeton high in the ranks of college teams, and the majority of those whose opinions we have always valued the most, Princeton at the top of the list. Anopsis of the game itself, the following excerpts from nearly two columns of very favorable comment by “Right Wing,” is particularly interesting:

“...But an analysis of the play shows that the game was practically lost before it was begun, and had not Corey made his display, he could not help but feel that no matter how much he may have been praised, the Orange and Black would have won on its merits rather than on its opponents’ errors.

“There was an inevitability about the whole proceeding that gripped the spectators, and everywhere the Tigerers did they appeared a shade better than the Elks—always better. They knew more baseball, in the field, and at the bat, and although they were aver of themselves. The Tigers were clearly certain at all stages, and they seemed to know that they would win if not early in the game, then toward its close.”

A New Year

With the opening exercises in Nassau Chapel this afternoon another University year begins. Things have been beginning for several days, in fact, and those of us who are returning find that it is good to be here. But we also find added responsibilities which just now we are too apt to forget in the pure joy of being back.

There are many things which the class of 1912, as Seniors, can do for Princeton’s good. The class has been unusually active in the past, and its activities for this year can be but the more active. As the class of 1912 has the opportunity now to a greater extent than ever before—every class has this opportunity—of making a lasting and positive mark, it should be well remember those of the classes of 37 and 70. If we proceed next June, as the classes of 37 and 70, with the wings of experience will make the most of our position. The class of 1912 will also find new responsibilities, it is as "nearer and now," and it is for the Juniors to cooperate with the Seniors in selecting an example to the rest of the University.

The class of 1914 is now in a position to do something. Freshmen can not do much, they usually must confine themselves with being done, but if Sophomore year there is a great chance to accomplish something. It is an unfortunate thing to distinguish itself last year. It’s high time to start something new. The inclination to preach a sermon to the class of 1915 is strong. We ought to leave those things to those who know more about them, to Elbert Hubbard or the Dean. But you Freshmen who are starting your college course have many things to learn and many things to unfold. This beginning of your college career is a big thing, it is not the biggest thing that will happen to you, but it is the biggest thing that has happened to you yet.

If you have no "bad" habits, don’t get the pathetically mistaken impression that you must contract some. Some of the big men in the University have "bad" habits, but they have made good in spite of them. Many men have not made good because of them.

Get to know your classmates, know as many as possible. And don’t pass hasty judgment on anyone. Your viewpoint will change before you have been here long, and you will begin to respect men for what is really in them.

Get into things, go out for something, athletics, debating, the public, religions, work—there are the things that count and count more than most realize before it is too late. Do a reasonable amount of study every day. Most men flunk out because they study too little most of the time, too much of the part of the time, and not enough of the time. Don’t envy a “shark” be one. Do to-day’s work to-day and work when you work. Most “smacks” do a deal more work than you get credit for. And don’t think that a first group man is considered...

INTERCOLLEGIATE NOTES

Harvard
Sixty-five candidates for the Crimson football team have reported into the first official call for candidates last week.
The material is very promising as there is plenty of weight as well as speed.
Moffat will be hard missed in the line as will Corbett in the backfield.
The latter is indispensable able to play at present on account of conditions but may get into the game.
Wells, who was the generally accepted choice for All-American fullback of the Princeton, reported last Tuesday and was given his old place in the backfield.

The Sophomore class is furnishing some excellent material for the "V".
Last year's twelve eleven last year defeated both the Princeton and Yale clubs. An unusual large squad of coaches for early in the season are at work with the candidates and a team as strong if not stronger than last year's staaggregation is confidently expected.
