Mr. Kellogg's Lecture.

It is to be deplored that more students did not hear the interesting lecture on the "Methods and Principles of Organized Charities," delivered by Mr. D. McFadden in the Old Chapel last evening. Dr. McCooh introduced Mr. Kellogg. The analysis of the lecture was substantially as follows: The question divides itself into three parts: (1) The Nature of the Problem, (2) Its History and (3) Structure and Methods. The first part only will be discussed. First the definition of the character of pauperism, the effect of special and of general institutions, and the dilemma of alms. Next the phases of dependence, divided into (a) Misfortune, (b) Crime, and (c) Pauperism, which is lower degradation than crime. Pauperism is self-abandonment, inertia, is anti social and destructive to itself. Thrice over are the conditions limiting charitable effort were discussed and charity defined. Charity is not almsgiving but a social virtue, a personal influence. The lecturer then dwelt on the unfortunate distribution of population, the bad environment of the poor and the extravagant disorder of charitable enterprise. Disorder prevents administration and discourages generosity and confidence. In charitable enterprise is false sentiment and assails integrity. Finally, disunion sets personality against materialism. After the lecturer had finished Prof. Johnson with a few well-chosen remarks closed a most interesting and instructive hour.

Dramatic Association Trials.

Trials for parts in Gilbert's "Engaged," which the Dramatic Association presented on the evening of the twenty-ninth, took place in University Hall Monday evening. There were more trials than ever before in the history of the Association. The following were the successful candidates: Cheviot Hill, ....Noyes '89, Belovavvany ....Kaufmann '89, Simpsons ....J. C. Gray '89, Maggse ....Alexander '90, Belinda Tehrere ....Perrin '90, Mrs. MacFarland ....Robbins '91. The parts of Parker and Minnie are to be taken by Shedly '90 and Merchant '90, though no one part has been yet assigned to either. The judges were Prof. Raymond, Wyckoff '89, and McAlpin '89.

Meeting of Southern Club.

The Southern Club held its second meeting at 7 o'clock Monday evening, in the Sketch Room. The constitution ordered to be drawn up at the first meeting was read and adopted with no changes. The following officers were then elected: President, O. Harvey, Maryland; Vice-President, D. Brockmire, Ky.; Treasurer, G. K. Edwards, D. C.; Corresponding Secretary, J. R. Church, D. C.; and Recording Secretary, S. Young, Ky. It was decided to hold the banquet on the second Friday in May. The meeting adjourned to convene at the call of the President.

The Southern Club has now a membership of about twenty-five and members are admitted from all states south of Mason and Dixon's Line and east of or bordering on the Mississippie.

The William's Nine.

Base Ball at Williams promises to be unusually successful this year and the nine which is here already seen is thought remarkably good. The team is being coached by Casey of the Philadelphians, who is considered the best trainer they have ever had. Van Wormer '89 and Clark '89, Capt., who formed last year's battery, will fill the same places this year and great things are expected. Van Wormer being undoubtedly the best pitcher in the league. The change battery will be Wilson '89, L. Ed. and Cox '90, catcher. Hotchkiss '91, a promising player, will cover first base and Duryee '89, who played on second base last year, will occupy the same position this year. Luce '91 will play short stop and Campbell '90, who filled that position last year, will be third-base man. This infield which is mainly of old players is considered very strong. Brown '96, L. E. and Wilson '89 were members of last year nine, and they as also Cox '91, are good men and are working well. Uhler '88 and Holister '91 are substitutes. The men have been practicing in the cage and gymnasium ever since Thanksgiving and are in excellent condition. The only real work is much needed. About seventeen hundred dollars have been already subscribed for the team. The nine will leave Williams-town, March 28th, for a southern trip during which it will play the Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, Washington, Athletic, Univ. of Pa., Cuban Giants, Brooklyn, New York, Staten Island, Jersey City, and St. Johns College teams. Exhibition games will be played after their return at the Troy, Harvard, Cuban Giants, Yale, Boston Univ., Rochester Univ., Lafayette and Univ. of Pa. nines.

Communication.

Editors of The Princetonian—In view of the recent political issues and an attempted revival of the visionary scheme in regard to the distribution of the college mails, suggested by a Voice in the January 1st. But as one side of the question has had two hearings, I think it only right that something be now said on the other side. Therefore, passing over many possible objections to such a plan, such as the impossibility of any student attending to such a task as it should be attended to; the well-nigh insurmountable difficulties arising from the present systems of Registered Letters, Money Orders and Special Deliveries; and the growing and dissatisfaction among the folks, sure to arise from the necessary short-comings of such an arrangement; I will mention only what seems to me the strongest argument against it.

This very scheme has already tried in Princeton, and proved an absolute failure. Several years ago just such a carrier plan was put in operation. The evils were so speciously disposed of as to induce all parties concerned so great, that it was given up in disgust, and that, too, when the difficulties were much less and the prospect of success much brighter than now. As to what was said about rushing, pushing, etc., at the office, one can object to that more than I, or the post office officials themselves, or all gentlemen, whether in or outside the college, do. But to remedy this let every one talk to the members of the college, who either are not or forget that they are gentlemen, and who consider that pushing and crowding in a public place and acting like rowdies is "fun."

"81, A memorial of Adam Todd Bruce '81, has been projected as a monument to the memory of the late President of the University.

It will confer a great favor upon certain members of the faculty if those of the present Senior class who intend to make their vocation after graduation will leave their names at The Princetonian. Applications from all parts of the country are constantly being made to the President and the faculty for teachers in Science, Literature, Philosophy and Mathematics. The statistics of the Nassau Herald have not been completed yet, and the recipients of the applications are often at a loss to know just what men to recommend. A good position will in all likelihood be the reward of those who comply with this simple request. The profession of teaching, as that of journalism, is daily becoming one of greater importance. Princeton’s College for Women is establishing a chair of Pedagogics, two years hence, is already bearing fruit, and influence andcontinued to be so as students enter succeeding classes from the various schools in which Princeton graduates teach.

Many of the members of the present Senior class are in doubt and ignorance as to what they will do on leaving college. Most of them are not inclined towards any of the professions, nor have they opportunities to enter business at once, and altogether are at sea as to what their future course in life shall be. Every one realizes the importance, and likewise experiences the anxiety, concerning the selection of his proper sphere in life or occupation best adapted to his own particular tastes and abilities, and many are thwarted from college into the world like strangers in a foreign land, with no definite plans or ideas. To all such, and in fact to every member of the Senior class, we heartily recommend a careful consideration of the opportunities and advantages offered by Princeton in her graduate course of study. Certainly one could pursue no more pleasant or beneficial plan than to select a graduate course suited to his taste and inclination and spend a year in profitable work and reading, while at the same time he could be settling or better determining his intended work or profession. We cannot imagine a better end to a collegiate education than a year so spent. With so much leisure time, how much could be done in literary work and reading outside of the college courses? However, it is not necessary for us to enumerate the many advantages of this plan and we merely suggest it to the consideration of the class.

The Columbia College Law School Seniors have elected the following committee, to arrange for their Commencement exercises: H. A. Jenney, Chairman; J. D. Baeus, J. B. Bouvier, Jr., A. L. Clark, W. A. Douglas, P. G. Frost, H. B. Gayley, F. R. Kellogg and P. P. Sandford.

A challenge has been received by the Columbia Freshmen from the Yale Freshmen to row them a two mile race on the Thames at New London within a week of the Yale—Harvard varsity race. The Columbia men favor such a proposition, but acting on the advice of the club, they probably refuse the challenge.
