Mackenzie Makes Two Home Runs

The second championship game of the series with Yale was played this afternoon on the "Varisty" Grounds and resulted in the above score. Although the sky was overcast all the morning, a large crowd was present, the covered grand stand, the open stand and the bleachers all being filled. The field presented a beautiful appearance and the game could not have been played under more favorable circumstances. The Pennsylvania railroad ran special trains from both New York and Philadelphia and brought large crowds from both these cities, affording them ample opportunity to witness this popular contest. Cheering continued throughout the entire game and was both enthusiastic and systematic, being conducted by appointed leaders. The Yale team arrived in town at 1 o'clock from New York and during their stay in Princeton were entertained at the University Club House. Following is the play in detail:

Alexander Hall was presented to the University this hour before a large and distinguished audience.

The faculty, trustees and undergraduate formed in procession in front of Old North at quarter to twelve and marched to the Hall. Dr. Patton presided and opened the exercises by asking Dr. William Henry President of the Senate, to offer prayer. After which Dr. Patton made a few remarks expressing his regret that Mr. and Mrs. Alexander were not present on account of circumstances beyond their control from participating in the exercises to-day. After reading a telegram from them, three cheers were given by the under graduates for Mrs. Alexander. Dr. McCook then made the presentation address, in it referring to President Patton's inaugural address which prophesied the building of a Commencement Hall. He said Mrs. Alexander wished to thank the college for their fulfillment of her wishes and prayers and asked for the faithfulness of work that he had done. That the Hall was a gift to Princeton and a tribute to Dr. Patton. It was to be the center of academic life, a temple not of religion, but dedicated to truth. It was also to be a memorial to the name of Alexander which had for many generations been identified with Princeton's history. Dr. Patton then accepted the Hall in behalf of the Faculty, Trustees, Alumni and Undergraduates. He said in part: "Mr. Charles wishes to express my gratitude to Mrs. Alexander and all my friends who have so helped me during the past six years. He paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Alexander, and praised Mr. Forrester for his work. He referred to the Alexanders who in past years had done so much for Princeton, to the younger generations of Alexanders and the fit way in which they were emulating the example of their predecessors and especially to Mr. Charles B. Alexander. He said that he hoped that this prophecy from his inaugural would not be the only one to be fulfilled. The Hall was to be the synthesis of culture, the symbol of the union of culture and religion. Dr. McCook then closed the exercises with the benediction.

Among the large audience were: President Low of Columbia, and Watson of Lafayette who was here.

GUN CLUB SHOOT.

PRINCETON 130, YALE 112.

The third annual intercollegiate shoot was held this morning on the grounds of the Princeton Gun Club. At the last moment word was received from the Harvard Gun Club that representatives could not attend, so the Yale and Princeton clubs were the only contestants. Each team was composed of five men who shot at 39 birds spaced from unknown traps, the Princeton team scoring 130 breaks against 112 of Yale's. By this victory Princeton has won two of the three shoots, Yale winning the other in '93. Following is the individual score:

THE DAILY PRINCETONIAN

Princeton, N. J.

The motion that was passed in the mass meeting last week in regard to the freshman baseball management is one which deserved and received the commendation of all present at the meeting. It is to be regretted that the resolution was not so worded as to include the management of the freshman football team as well. It is not our purpose or desire to cast any reflection whatever on the management of any freshman organization, either past or present, but it is a well known fact that some teams have been grossly mismanaged, while none have received the benefit of that experience which is gained by long association with college men and methods. The appointment of a junior as manager of the team will secure this advantage and besides there will be shown none of that formalism which is so apt to appear in the selection of a freshman team. The games, also, will in most cases be arranged with better teams than is the case at present.

The inordinately exercises of Alexander Hall held this noon mark another instance of that generosity which is seen in the numerous buildings on our campus, all of which stand as monuments to the interest and benefactions of the friends of Princeton University. In the selection of a building to be used for the exercises connected with commencement week a very wise choice has been made. While the need of a new dormitory is a pressing one, and the lecture rooms are somewhat cramped, the utter inadequacy of the First Presbyterian Church as a Commencement Hall has been very apparent in the last few years. We wish to express the gratitude of the undergraduates and especially of the graduating class, for this feature which will add so much to the attractiveness of their commencement exercises, and which will stand as a monument to the munificence of a family which has always been connected with Princeton's history.

PRINCETON 11, HARVARD 4.

The disagreeable weather did not prevent a large crowd from witnessing the decisive game of the Harvard series at New Haven last Wednesday. The rainstepped fiercely with the pitchers, but otherwise the fielding of both teams was good, considering the condition of the grounds. For Harvard, Whitemore, Winslow, and Cook played the best ball, while the all around work of Altman and King, and Ward were the features for Princeton. Williams gave Altman able support behind the bat. Harvard scored her only runs in the third inning. Whitemore was hit by a pitched ball and reached third on a wild pitch, passed ball. Cook flew out to center. Dickinson received his base on balls; this together with hits by Paine, Wigg, and Winslow, and Brooks' error netted four runs.

Princeton scored first in the fourth inning, but after that had no trouble in making runs, at least one man crossing the plate in every inning except the ninth.
