Since the success of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens was assured there has been a general wish to see a similar institution established in this country. Such a school is now in operation.

The Princetonian.

A committee of seventy-five men, representing the forty-four leading colleges and universities of the United States and almost every city of importance, was appointed by the Archaeological Institute of America to consider and suggest the advisability of its establishment. At a meeting of the council of the Institute at New York on May 11, the School at Rome was taken into fellowship with the Archaeological Institute and was granted a fellowship in archaeology of $600, and a certain amount to be used in excavation and research. The school was developed and organized at a general meeting of the committee on May 18 under the name of the American School of Classical Studies at Rome. A second fellowship of $600 was established and two directors were elected for the ensuing year: Prof. W. G. Haddad of the University of Chicago, and Prof. A. L. Frothingham, of Princeton, who will open the school October 15.

The object of the school is to give an opportunity for advanced study in the fields of literature, philology, archaeology, and art. Rome gives unusual advantages for these studies in its monuments, its great collections of manuscripts and its libraries.

Prof. Hale will have charge of the work in philology and literature, and Prof. Frothingham that in archaeology and art. The proposed studies are:

1. The archaeology of ancient Italy (Italic, Etruscan, Roman) and of the early Christian, Mediaeval and Renaissance periods;
2. Inscriptions in Latin and the dialects;
3. Latin palaeography, ancient and mediaeval;
4. Latin literature, as bearing upon ancient art, and (5) the antiquities of Rome itself.

The Classical School will be located with the School of Architecture in the former Villa Ladovisi, an old palace on the Pincian hill. The quiet and picturesque surroundings make the situation a perfect one for the pursuit of studies in a beautiful view over the city, it constitutes one of the most extensive panoramas of Rome and Campagna. How far the broad field of work laid out actually will be covered will depend upon the judgment of the committee, the resources of the school, the special qualifications of the different directors, and the requirements of the students. Study will be made of ancient sites in Italy and the work will doubtless result in publications similar to those of the American School at Athens. The students will be expected to spend the majority of the time in Rome and the rest in travel through Italy and Greece and one or more archaeological journeys will be made every year by the directors and students.

It has been a noticeable fact that Princeton has never furnished its adequate proportion of students for the school at Athens. The men who are graduating this year should bear in mind that if they can possibly spend a year of study in Europe, the school at Rome will offer them an opportunity for work in a new field and under one of their own professors. The competition for the two fellowships already established is open to any graduate in the college in good standing and it is hoped that Princeton will be well represented at the School at Rome during the coming year.

THE PENNSYLVANIA CHAUTAUQUA.

Invitations have been received by the Princeton University Glee Club to send representatives to the Chautauqua Glee Club of the Pennsylvania Chautauqua at Mt. Gretna. The proposed glee club will be under the direction of Professor C. A. Marks and will sing on the "College Days" July 16th and 17th. It is to be composed of members of the musical organizations of the principal universities and colleges of the United States which shall send representatives to the oratorial contest to which attention was called in a recent issue.

H. C. B. McPherson, '68, and Rev. Wiltton Merle Smith, '77, among others have been asked to act as judges. The plans of the Assembly are very attractively set forth in a pamphlet which will be mailed by Mr. Luther R. Mott of the class of '93, 209 Pine street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

BROOKLYN POLYTECHNIC CLUB.

The last meeting of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Club for this year was held in the faculty room on Monday evening.

The constitution as drafted by the executive committee was adopted and other matters of business were brought up and discussed.

Mr. C. O. Mudge, '92, then addressed the members in regard to the courses of work it was possible for a club of this sort to pursue and suggested many excellent ways of working up college sentiment in the school.

It is too late in the year for any extensive work this spring, the club will begin in the fall an active campaign, and in addition to sending the college periodicals and copies of the Bric-a-Brac to the school, articles in regard to Princeton will be published in the school paper, "The Polytechnic."

Single Copies, 5 Cents.
On sale at J. B. Drake's, opp. Campus.
Features men and women from all parts of the country.
New Clubs will be formed to meet special purposes.
We seek to interest the College in matters of a patriotic character.
Latter-day fashions and other com- medicaments and publications from all its friends are invited.
Subscriptions, advertisements, and all communcouncil. If we remember rightly, it was at least intimated that the name was to be chosen at the close of the competition on April twenty-seventh. We feel certain that such a choice would facilitate a smoother course of events at the time of the Sophomore reception, and hope that the committee will give its early attention to the subject.

Taxpayers near the building now in course of construction is not a matter of vital importance, yet it would better if there were some other mode of designation than the circum-side, to be used for the balanced columns. As we understand, the names should be left at No. 2 S. St., or addressed to:
